Union Lodge Entertainment.
At the meeting of Union Lodge, No. 22, K. of P., last night a candidate was raised to knighthood, after which there was an enjoyable entertainment. Past Grand Chancellor E. C. Gill made the address of the evening and Mr. D. S. Goumy gave several Shakespearean recitations. Messrs. Boyd and Felka rendered the popular airs of the day on the flute and xylophone. A collection was served, during which music was rendered by Union Lodge Orchestra, composed of Messrs. C. T. Roderick, Harry H. Brown, George W. Blackston and George Haley.

CITIZENS CELEBRATE

Reception to Commissioners and Members of Board of Education.

ADDRESS BY MR. H. B. F. MACFARLAND

Event Commemorates Acquisition of Additional School Facilities.

PROGRAM OF EXERCISES

The Takoma Park Citizens' Association tendered the Commissioners of the District of Columbia and members of the board of education an elaborate reception in Takoma Hall last night in celebration of the completion of the new Takoma Park public school building. The guests were received at the hall by President J. B. Kinnear and a committee from the association, composed of Capt. T. W. Lay, J. H. Clarke, J. H. Van Houten, Dr. A. V. Parsons and Lisle Morrison. Those present included residents from Washington and all the suburban resorts in the vicinity of Takoma Park. The hall was artistically decorated with large American flags, while the stage upon which the invited guests and speakers were seated was banked with snowballs, lilies and greens, presenting a very attractive appearance. In the center of the stage was Commissioner Macfarland, while on either side of him were seated George H. Harries, vice president of the board of education; J. Holdsworth Gordon, Mrs. H. L. West, Dr. Richard Kingsman, Mrs. H. Francis and Superintendent A. T. Stuart. Shortly after 8 o'clock President Kinnear called the meeting to order and read letters of regret from Commissioner Ross and Beach, both of whom were unable to be present at the celebrations, the former's health forbidding attendance and the latter being out of the city. President Kinnear spoke of the object of the meeting and followed his remarks with a brief history of the new school and how the appropriation was, after much delay, finally secured through the efforts of the citizens and members of the association. Commissioner Macfarland's Address. Upon the conclusion of his remarks he introduced the speaker of the evening, Commissioner H. B. F. Macfarland, who was given a hearty reception, followed by rounds of applause. Commissioner Macfarland, in addressing the association and citizens of Takoma Park, said, in part: "It is a great pleasure to take part in your rejoicing, and to find a community that heartily welcomes a school house. For, strange as it may seem, the Commissioners find, in searching for sites, that school houses are not welcome everywhere. Everybody is in favor of popular education in the abstract, but everybody is not in favor of public schools in the concrete—that is to say, in the neighborhood. After the Commissioners, with some effort, secure from Congress the money for new school houses so necessary in the District of Columbia, where we have not enough to accommodate the school population, they have to make, in some cases, an even greater effort to find schools which can be used without serious protest. With several thousand children waiting for adequate school accommodations, with everybody agreeing that we ought to have not only popular education, but compulsory education as a sure foundation for the future safety and success of the community, we find reputable citizens in large numbers making the selection of the most eligible sites difficult by their protests. "It is, therefore, delightful to know that Takoma Park likes its school house, as well it may, not only for the general reasons which apply everywhere, but because of the attractiveness of this particular building. Of all the 120 school houses of the District of Columbia none is more beautiful nor more convenient. In its opening there is all the significance of the opening of life, for it is alive with the life of the community. It is fortunate that its work begins at the opening of a century with all its possibilities for American boys and girls. It is fortunate that it is in the hands of a community which has always been an intellectual capital and which is now a great university community, with 8,500 students on the rolls of the institutions of higher learning, enjoying its unexampled advantages for liberal culture. "It is fortunate in being under the care of the board of education, which has already done so much for the improvement of our public school system, and whose administration promises even better things. It is fortunate in being under the direction of our admirable superintendent of public schools and with permission. It is fortunate that it is in the hands of the public schools, heartily congratulating the citizens of Takoma Park upon the auspicious opening of this one." Other Addresses. President Kinnear then introduced Mr. George H. Harries, vice president of the board, who took occasion to refer to the time when the first audiences were held with a committee from the association, urging the board of education to assist in securing the improvement. He incidentally referred to the service, which had been a continual cause of complaint among the suburban residents in this section. In closing his remarks, he said the board of education would do all in its power to provide the best teachers for the instruction of the school children, and requested the citizens to call upon the board from time to time and offer suggestion. Mr. Harries was followed by Superintendent of Schools T. Stuart, in a lengthy address, which pointed to the necessity of the board to compare the duties of a school teacher at a compensation of $400 with that of a coal passer in the United States navy at $500 a year. He outlined in a general way the numerous cares and responsibilities involved upon a teacher and the course of training necessary before entering upon the charge of a school. He closed his remarks by saying that as the head of the educational branch of the government, he would endeavor to give the citizens the best that had in the way of teachers for the new school, and asked the assistance of the parents in lightening the daily burdens of the teachers. The closing address of the evening was made by Mr. Louis B. Shoemaker, president of the Brightwood Citizens' Association. He said the occasion was memorable, because it was perhaps the first time that the citizens of the District of Columbia, which is now more than 100 years old, had assembled in public meeting to celebrate the dedication of a public school building in the new and greater Washington, and so near the northern boundary of the District of Columbia. A reception was held in the new school from 5 until 7:30 o'clock last evening, when the building was thrown open for public inspection. The guests were welcomed by a committee from the association, composed of Capt. W. T. Lay, Mrs. L. B. Burdette, Mr. R. S. Brown, Mr. J. H. Woods and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Brown. The Victoria orchestra, from Washington, rendered selections during the intermission between the reception and the address. The new structure which has just been completed is considered one of the neatest and best arranged institutions of its kind in the District. It is located on the west side of Piney Branch road, near Blair road. It is one story and basement, built of brick, with a highly ornamental design. The building is so built that it can be changed into an eight-room school without any great outlay. At present it is proposed to make it four rooms, all on the first floor, to be enlarged when the occasion warrants it. The word "Takoma" in bright colored gold leaf stands out in bas relief on the front of the building, while the words "public school of smaller design are just above the doors. The architect of the building was William J. Palmer and the estimated cost, according to the figures made by the board of education, was $25,000. The earth taken out when excavating has been used to fill in the lawn surrounding the school so as to form a gentle slope away from the building in all directions. The grounds contain gravel walks around the building. The play grounds are partitioned off and are covered with rich lawn. Work of Young Women. Wednesday evening at the regular monthly meeting of the Clara Parish "Y," a program was presented, which consisted of Scripture readings by the president, Miss Waring; recitations appropriate to the work, discussion of new work and the various methods of conducting the same. Mrs. Bates, the superintendent of the "Y's" of the District of Columbia, was present. A motion was made and unanimously carried that the Florence Crittenton work be undertaken and a girl membership be given in the home. Committees were appointed on the flower mission, the visitations in the police station and jail and the distribution of good literature; also one to arrange for social meetings and entertainments. The union was reported to be in splendid working order.

VIRGINIA DIOCESE

Annual Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

BISHOP WHITTLE'S ANNUAL ADDRESS

Report by Bishop Gibson and Appointment of Committees.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE

Special Dispatch to The Evening Star. Evening Star Bureau. No. 701 King Street. Ball Telephone No. 106. ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 16, 1901. The second day's session of the 10th annual council of the Protestant Episcopal Church for the diocese of Virginia opened this morning at 9:30 o'clock in Christ Church with a large attendance of delegates and parishes. Prior to the business session devotional services were held at 7 o'clock in St. Paul's Church. The services in Christ Church opened with a prayer by the presiding officer, Bishop Gibson. Then followed the reading of the minutes of yesterday's session. A resolution was offered and unanimously adopted thanking the trustees of the Theological Seminary and the ladies of the reception committee for Seminary Hill for entertaining the delegates yesterday afternoon. Rev. Everard Meade, rector of Pohick Church, offered a resolution indorsing the movement recently made by the Mount Vernon Chapter, D. D. R., of the year of the restoration of Pohick Church. The motion was unanimously adopted. The address of Bishop Whittle, bishop of the Virginia diocese, was read by Bishop Gibson. Bishop Whittle was not able to be present owing to ill health. His address was in part as follows: "It is a great grief to me that I cannot be with you in our annual council. But a long and severe illness, commencing about the middle of January, has left me in such a condition that I am not able to stand the fatigue which my attendance on your meeting would involve. Sickened at other periods of the year prevented me from filling appointments which I had made, and, being in the seventy-eighth year of my age and the fifty-fourth and the thirty-fourth of my episcopate, I cannot hope in time to come to do much in the way of spiritual and real church work, but must rely chiefly on my brother bishop, who is so able and willing to bear it." The summary of the address was as follows: "Visitations, 18; confirmed, 47; postulants received, 4; candidates for priest's orders admitted, 4; present number, 17; deacons ordained, 6; letters dimissory given, 9; letters dimissory accepted, 10; lay readers licensed, 14; present number of ministers, 88; engaged in parochial work, 69. "In a former address I spoke of the great and steady decrease in the number of our candidates for holy orders during the past few years, a fact which causes me the deepest concern, being in my judgment, a most significant indication of the spiritual and real condition of the church. I have just reported two white postulants only received last year, a much smaller number than ever before in my experience of more than thirty years. And of the six young men reported as having been ordained deacons, only one is a native of Virginia, and three of the six were transferred to other fields of labor. "I had hoped that many members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew throughout the diocese, of whom we hear so much, would have felt inwardly moved by the Holy Ghost to devote themselves to the larger and more important work of the ministry, but so far as I know not one, because of his connection with that society, has ever become a candidate for holy orders. "Surely this is a sad and alarming state of things, showing that while there is great religious activity of some sort in our churches and among our congregations, there must be much of a form of godliness without the power thereof. I trust the committee appointed to report on this subject may be able to suggest the causes and the remedy for this deplorable evil. "Continuing the bishop called special attention to the Prayer Book and Hymnal Distribution Society, one of the most valuable organizations of the church. Its needs were recommended to the careful consideration of the delegates. The address closed with an invocation for the blessing of God upon the council. Bishop Gibson's Annual Report. Immediately upon finishing the address of Bishop Whittle, Bishop Gibson read his own annual report. In summarizing his address he said: "I have made 122 visitations of churches and 13 thirty-two other services. I have preached sermons and addresses to the number of 210. I have officiated on ninety-three occasions of confirmation and confirmed 49 candidates. Bishop Gibson spoke of the preservation and restoration of colonial churches. He recommended that committees be appointed in parishes where there were such churches to rebuild or repair as might be necessary. Referring to the observance of Sunday, the bishop spoke, in part, as follows: "I find the question of observance of the Lord's day is troubling many of our clergy. This is especially true of the clergy in the cities. They see their people go off on excursions on Sunday, spend part of the day playing golf and take the afternoon and evening for visiting socially. Naturally, this state of things distresses them. The Lord's day, kept religiously, is the chief bulwark of Christianity. The other feast days of the church and their servants of the church do not appeal to the consciences of our people in anything like the same way Sunday is interwoven into the habits of thought and life of the masses of those with whom we deal. They are more ready to hear on Sunday. The day itself calls for a strain of reflection and pious work. The rest is welcome to those who toil, and contact with the high themes of the pulpit is refreshing and stimulating. Now to have all them threatened by the entrance into our camp of an insidious enemy in the shape of a careless habit is a grief to every earnest-minded man. "Many of those who take a day off from church to go into the country or run a few times over the golf links or give a party on Sunday would be exceedingly sorry to see the Christian habits of their whole people changed. "If Christians are not careful about keeping the Lord's day they cannot expect others to esteem it. If individual Christians have no regard as to the amount of work they do on the Lord's day, how can they expect soulless corporations to be more thoughtful of their employees? "I hope the clergy, especially those in the cities and towns, will take this subject into consideration and give the people the results of their reflections with much plainness and freedom." Standing Committees. At the conclusion of the address the standing committees for the Virginia diocese were announced, as follows: For the diocese of Virginia—Rev. Joseph Packard, D.D.; Rev. P. P. Phillips, Rev. Berryman Green, Messrs. Arthur Herbert, L. M. Blackford, John R. Zimmerman. The following were the committees for various branches: Finance—Joseph Bryan, E. B. Addison, James M. Boyd, William H. Palmer, James M. Ball. Disabled clergy fund—Rev. R. A. Goodwin, Cyrus Boesloux, John F. Glenn, Wm. H. Palmer. Widows and orphans' fund—Bishop Gibson, Rev. L. R. Mason, J. M. Taylor, Wm. F. Gray, E. B. Addison. Epiphany and three of the six were transferred to other fields of labor. "I had hoped that many members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew throughout the

R. A. Gibson, E. B. Addison, William H. Palmer, James M. Ball. At 11 o'clock a confirmation service was held, conducted by Rev. W. C. Latane and five were confirmed. The business service was resumed thereafter and concluded at 1:30. The council will adjourn tomorrow evening. A missionary service was held last night at 8 o'clock in Christ Church, under the auspices of the Diocesan Missionary Society, when the report of that society was read by Rev. Wm. M. Clark. Addresses were delivered by Revs. W. C. Latane and F. W. Neve and Mr. William C. Bentley. New Educational Institution. A new educational institution, under Catholic auspices, is to be established in this city. The location selected is at the southeast corner of Whitney avenue and 18th street, Columbia Heights. It is the purpose of the Dominican Order of the Catholic Church to erect there a building which will be suitable for school purposes. There is ample ground, as that which has already been secured has a frontage of 112 feet on Whitney avenue, 133 feet on 18th street and 150 feet on Dartmouth street. It is understood that plans are being prepared by Mr. Henry Simpson, architect, and that building operations will be begun in the near future. Dr. Bristol's Lecture on Brains. The people of Brookland and vicinity will be given the opportunity tomorrow evening to hear a lecture by Rev. F. M. Bristol, D.D. The topic will be "Brains," and the lecture will be delivered in Brookland M. E. Church. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the church. If you want work read the want columns of The Star.
